Week of 9/28/20

P.E.

If you have been at home during a PE class that you have heard us moving and jumping around. Keep filling out the weekly Quiz in Google Classroom. This week the K-2 cluster is working on locomotor movements, 3-5 on catching, and 6-8 on flexibility. Mr. Hennessy cmhennessy@cps.edu

Library

Head, shoulders, knees & toes, just like we have different body parts, there are parts of a book too and K-3 completed a drag/drop activity about parts of a book this week. 4-6th is learning about kids who are changing the world and middle school continues to become familiar with library.cps.edu so they can research for their art project. Mrs. Dowling rmdowling@cps.edu

Art

Fall is here, K-3 students, save any colorful leaves you find! We will use them to make art as we move from shapes into color and texture. Grade 4 - 8 have started looking at Narrative Painting artists to inspire them for their Major Project. We start our Graphic Organizers this week Exciting times!

Mrs. Cairns clcairns@cps.edu

Technology

we connect, everyone!

Students used Google Slides to create a presentation about themselves and their favorite cities. We will take it further next week and create a dynamic / hyperlinked presentation.

Music

We are off and running! (to a steady beat, of course!) In Week 3, K-1 students began learning music terms and other grades used online music software to learn solfege and to compose their very own songs! Don't forget to check your Google Classroom for all assignments and lesson materials!

The Mid-Autumn Festival (Moon Festival) is one of the most important traditional events in Asia, like Christmas and Thanksgiving in the West. Falling on the 15th day of the 8th month of the lunar calendar, the round shape and completeness of the full moon symbolize family and friends reunion. This year the Mid-Autumn Festival will fall on October 1st. The Museum of Chinese in America invited two of our students to recite poems as part of their Moon Festival Celebration event on October 3rd. Feel free to join their virtual celebration.

(Please RSVP prior to the festival here: bit.ly/midautumnfest2020)
