Math -
Agostinelli

Students looked at patterns in division last week, and discovered the relationships that will help them consider the reasonableness of their quotients. This week we will use models and partial quotients to divide as we continue to build a conceptual foundation of this operation. Reminder: Weekly Math Logs should be completed daily so they are ready to be turned in every Friday! <http://bit.ly/MsAgostinelli>

315 Math meets DAILY from 9:15AM-10:00AM

Science/SS - Yau

Science: Patterns of Earth and Sky Unit:

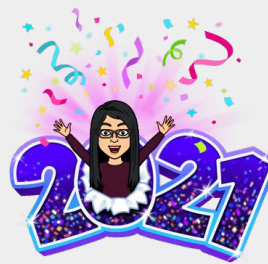

Students are introduced to the nanoscale and think about the tiny bits of matter that make up substances and mixtures all around them. They will read the book Made of Matter and watch videos to learn about the atoms and molecules and their unique properties.

315 Science Meets DAILY from 11:00 AM - 11:30 AM

Social Science:

Students work on Studies Weekly Week 11: Analyzing and Evaluating Evidence. They will determine if sources are credible, analyze a choice source, be introduced to a thesis and thinking about how to justify a claim. Test on Friday.
